CREATE AN ENQUIRY DRIVEN CULTURE

THE SECRET SAUCE OF SUCCESS

What difference would it make if your people: a) thought for themselves; b) asked for what they wanted rather than telling you after they resign; c) spoke up when they saw a better way of doing things?

To get people to tell you what they really think, we must ask them the right questions to get them to open up. Old-style hierarchical leaders don't have time to listen, so they rush to give solutions. In enquiry-driven cultures people adopt a question-based approach to challenges. This means a shift to becoming 'coach-like' in every meeting and one-to-one. This session will transform your business so that everyone is as entrepreneurial and motivated as you.
